

WHLReview.com

Wilderness House Literary Review # 1/1

WHLReview

145 Foster Street
Littleton MA 01460

The Wilderness House Literary Review is a publication devoted to excellence in literature and the arts.

The WHLReview is published online quarterly with a best of annual print edition.

Deadlines are as follows

March 1 - Spring

June 1 - Summer

September 1 - Autumn

December 1 - Winter

The annual edition will be published in May.

Editor & Publisher

Steve Glines

Poetry Editor

Irene Koronas

Fiction Editor

Julia Carlson

Nonfiction Editor

Steve Glines

Book Reviews Editor

Doug Holder

Arts Editor

Steve Glines

Poet in Residence

Tomas O'Leary

The Wilderness House
Literary Review

Welcome to the first edition of the Wilderness House Literary Review. WHLR is a result of the collaboration between a group of poets and writers who call themselves the Bagel Bards and the Wilderness House Literary Retreat, itself a cooperative effort between the Rotary Club of Littleton Massachusetts and the New England Forestry Foundation. All of the stories, articles, poems and examples of art have been presented as PDF files, Portable Document Format. This is a format that allows for a much cleaner presentation than would otherwise be available on the web. If you don't have an Adobe Reader (used to read a PDF file) on your computer you can download one from the Adobe website. The files are large and we hope you will be patient when downloading but we think the beauty of the words deserves a beautiful presentation.

For those of you with limited bandwidth (i.e. dial up users) click HERE. Enough housekeeping.

It's always a pleasure to present a new collection of art and literature. When we started to assemble this issue none of us expected the volume of submissions. It was a pleasure making this selection. Since this is our spring issue and we are hungry for sunshine after the drab confines of winter we begin with a poem by Tomas O'Leary, our poet in residence, titled 'Sermon on Sun Worship.' We hope that warmed you up.

Essays

When you get to a certain age many of us discover that we are living in an age of regrets, not for what we have done but for what we left undone. How many of us wish we could go back and tell our first love what they still mean to us. Charles Campbell tells us in two essays about the first two meaningful relationships of his adult life. He's asked us to post his biography lest some think he is stuck in the past.

Charles Campbell is a man who reached 60 years of life managing to accomplish nothing of note but a happy marriage of 34 years, so considers himself an extremely successful man. He is the result of the cooperation of the Bagel Bards and the Wilderness House Literary Retreat.

A new and exciting travelog:

Submissions

Poetry may be submitted in any form.

Short fiction may be submitted in three formats:

1. very short stories less than 500 words in length
2. short stories less than 1000 words in length
3. Short stories that don't fit the above should be less than 5000 words.

Non-Fiction is just that so lets see some interesting footnotes.

Book Reviews should be positive unless the author is a well-known blowhard. Our mission is to encourage literature not discourage it.

Non-fiction should be short, (a lot) less than 5000 words.

Any form of art may be submitted with the constraint that it must be something that can be published in 2 dimensions. It's hard to publish sculpture but illustrations together with some intelligent prose count.

Published works are welcome with proper attribution.

Please submit all works electronically.

Support our sponsors
Wilderness House Friends

Your Ad Here

has not written anything except a check for most of those decades. He currently resides in Georgia.. "If Lou Gehrig is the luckiest man on the face of the earth, he must feel my hot breath on the back of his neck."

We start with 'Red Sky at Night' followed by 'Red Sky in the Morning.' We secretly hope he finds a very wide audience.

On the literati of Philadelphia

Meeting at the Pass by Afaa Michael Weaver

Mathematical musings by Irene Koronas

Ellipse and Parabola

Zero begins end

Friends, family and reform school by John Hildebidle

Strict Objectivity

A New Relationship

Mathew

The Class Struggle

Winter musings

Urban Orchard by Steve Glines

Fiction

October Run in Danehy Park

By Sarah Merrow

28th Century Milky Way Conference on Hieroglyph Philology.
Paper 27-09:

By Edward Abrahamson

Over life \(about my dead aunt\)

By Irene Koronas

THE QUIET ROOM

By Doug Holder

Poetry

Modern life is fast. None of us have the time to fill in the blank here. Where once the literary inclined might have written a serialized Victorian novel now we find the poet and chapbook. This is not your grandmother's poetry, the standard measures of poetry, meter and verse, still exist and are thrilling to hear when well executed but most modern poetry is what the classic academics might condescendingly call experimental. Filled with blank verse and prose, poetry is illustrative, gestalt filled, post-post modern expressions of short fiction, short essay, short It is Picasso to Rembrandt, e. e. cummings to Shakespeare. How often have you read a short work and exclaimed metaphorically, "Wow that's poetry." Today it is poetry. America is experiencing a vibrant literary renaissance. We offer a sampling of it here.

A D Winans

Afaa M Weaver

Alan Catlin

Barbara Bialick

Bill Costley

Carolyn Gregory

Chad Parenteau

Clara Diebold

Deborah Priestly

Diana Der-Hovanessian

Doug Worth

Ellaraine Lockie

Eric Greinke

Francis LeMoine

Harris Gardner

Howard Lee Kilby

Hugh Fox

Jennifer Matthews

Joanne Vyce

John Hildebidle

John Mercui Dooley

Julia Carlson

Kelley J White

Kevin McLellan

Lainie Senechal

Lo Galluccio

Marc D Goldfiner

Matthew Silver Rosenthal

Molly Lynn Watt

Pat Brodie

Patrick Carrington

Philip E Burnham

Richard Wilhelm

Robert K Johnson

Sarah Merrow

Stephen Morse

Taylor Graham

Tomas OLeary

Reviews

No literary journal would be complete without a book review section. In our first edition we review two books. One is of historical interest to us because it describes the generation of writers that followed the Beat Generation.

"Baby Beat Generation & The 2nd San Francisco Renaissance "

Review By: Charles P. Ries

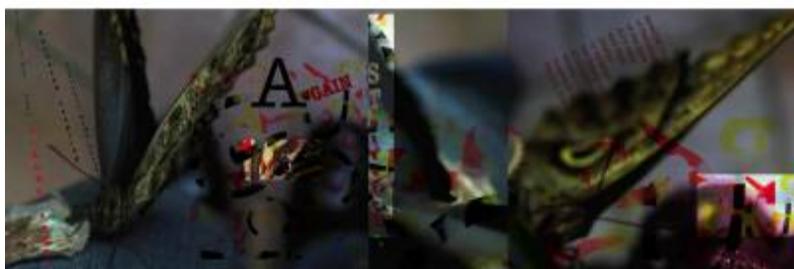

Followed by "[Inside The Outside:
An Anthology of Avant-Garde American Poets](#)"

Review by Doug Holder

Visual Art

We take pleasure putting our logo on top of interesting works of art. For our arts section we have chosen to place our logo on top of an exceptional work of art by Jenny Lawson Grassl. A version of the original art may be found here.

The masthead (at the top of this page) is our logo placed on a work by Irene Koronas who is also a writer and out poetry editor. If our masthead was a teaser here is a further sampling of Irene's work.

For some reason many poets are also visual artists and Deborah Priestly is one of them. Her poem 'tree of cats' may be found above in the poetry section. We thought it fitting to show off a sampling of her art with a painting of a cat.

We know we said no 3D art but photograph of this sculpture by architect William Turvelle somehow fit.

That is it for our Spring 2006 edition. The deadline for our Summer edition is June 1. No doubt there are errors and omissions. Please bring these to our attention.

As we said when we started this is a joint production of Wilderness House Literary Retreat and the 'bagel bards'. The 'Bagel Bards' have just published their first (and we hope of many) anthology. You may purchase it here:

00001514

WHLReview.com

Wilderness House Literary Review # 1/1

WHLReview

145 Foster Street
Littleton MA 01460

The Wilderness House Literary Review is a publication devoted to excellence in literature and the arts.

The WHLReview is published online quarterly with a best of annual print edition.

Deadlines are as follows
March 1 - Spring
June 1 - Summer
September 1 - Autumn
December 1 - Winter

The annual edition will be published in May.

Editor & Publisher
Steve Glines

Poetry Editor
Irene Koronas

Fiction Editor
Julia Carlson

Nonfiction Editor
Steve Glines

Book Reviews Editor
Doug Holder

Arts Editor
Steve Glines

Poet in Residence
Tomas O'Leary

The Wilderness House
Literary Review

Welcome to the first edition of the Wilderness House Literary Review. WHLR is a result of the collaboration between a group of poets and writers who call themselves the Bagel Bards and the Wilderness House Literary Retreat, itself a cooperative effort between the Rotary Club of Littleton Massachusetts and the New England Forestry Foundation. All of the stories, articles, poems and examples of art have been presented as PDF files, Portable Document Format. This is a format that allows for a much cleaner presentation than would otherwise be available on the web. If you don't have an Adobe Reader (used to read a PDF file) on your computer you can download one from the Adobe website. The files are large and we hope you will be patient when downloading but we think the beauty of the words deserves a beautiful presentation. Enough housekeeping.

It's always a pleasure to present a new collection of art and literature. When we started to assemble this issue none of us expected the volume of submissions. It was a pleasure making this selection. Since this is our spring issue and we are hungry for sunshine after the drab confines of winter we begin with a poem by Tomas O'Leary, our poet in residence, titled 'Sermon on Sun Worship.' We hope that warmed you up.

Essays

When you get to a certain age many of us discover that we are living in an age of regrets, not for what we have done but for what we left undone. How many of us wish we could go back and tell our first love what they still mean to us. Charles Campbell tells us in two essays about the first two meaningful relationships of his adult life. He's asked us to post his biography lest some think he is stuck in the past.

Charles Campbell is a man who reached 60 years of life managing to accomplish nothing of note but a happy marriage of 34 years, so considers himself an extremely successful man. He has not written anything except a check for most of those decades. He currently resides in Georgia.. "If Lou Gehrig is the luckiest man on the face of the earth, he must feel my hot breath on the back of his neck."

A new and exciting travelog:

is the result of the cooperation of the Bagel Bards and the Wilderness House Literary Retreat.

Submissions

Poetry may be submitted in any form.

Short fiction may be submitted in three formats:

1. very short stories less than 500 words in length
2. short stories less than 1000 words in length
3. Short stories that don't fit the above should be less than 5000 words.

Non-Fiction is just that so lets see some interesting footnotes.

Book Reviews should be positive unless the author is a well-known blowhard. Our mission is to encourage literature not discourage it.

Non-fiction should be short, (a lot) less than 5000 words.

Any form of art may be submitted with the constraint that it must be something that can be published in 2 dimensions. It's hard to publish sculpture but illustrations together with some intelligent prose count.

Published works are welcome with proper attribution.

Please submit all works electronically.

Support our sponsors
Wilderness House Friends

Your Ad Here

We start with 'Red Sky at Night' followed by 'Red Sky in the Morning.' We secretly hope he finds a very wide audience.

On the literati of Philadelphia

Meeting at the Pass by Afaa Michael Weaver

Mathematical musings by Irene Koronas

Ellipse and Parabola

Zero begins end

Friends, family and reform school by John Hildebidle

Strict Objectivity

A New Relationship

Mathew

The Class Struggle

Winter musings

Urban Orchard by Steve Glines

Fiction

October Run in Danehy Park

By Sarah Merrow

28th Century Milky Way Conference on Hieroglyph Philology. Paper 27-09:

By Edward Abrahamson

Over life \(about my dead aunt\)

By Irene Koronas

THE QUIET ROOM

By Doug Holder

Poetry

Modern life is fast. None of us have the time to fill in the blank here. Where once the literary inclined might have written a serialized Victorian novel now we find the poet and chapbook. This is not your grandmother's poetry, the standard measures of poetry, meter and verse, still exist and are thrilling to hear when well executed but most modern poetry is what the classic academics might condescendingly call experimental. Filled with blank verse and prose, poetry is illustrative, gestalt filled, post-post modern expressions of short fiction, short essay, short It is Picasso to Rembrandt, e. e. cummings to Shakespeare. How often have you read a short work and exclaimed metaphorically, "Wow that's poetry." Today it is poetry. America is experiencing a vibrant literary renaissance. We offer a sampling of it here.

A D Winans

Afaa M Weaver

Alan Catlin

Barbara Bialick

Bill Costley

Carolyn Gregory

Chad Parenteau

Clara Diebold

Deborah Priestly

Diana Der-Hovanesian

Doug Worth

Ellaraine Lockie

Eric Greinke

Francis LeMoine

Harris Gardner

Howard Lee Kilby

Hugh Fox

Jennifer Matthews

Joanne Vyce

John Hildebidle

John Mercui Dooley

Julia Carlson

Kelley J White

Kevin McLellan

Lainie Senechal

Lo Galluccio

Marc D Goldfiner

Matthew Silver Rosenthal

Molly Lynn Watt

Pat Brodie

Patrick Carrington

Philip E Burnham

Richard Wilhelm

Robert K Johnson

Sarah Merrow

Stephen Morse

Taylor Graham

Tomas OLeary

Reviews

No literary journal would be complete without a book review section. In our first edition we review two books. One is of historical interest to us because it describes the generation of writers that followed the Beat Generation.

"Baby Beat Generation & The 2nd San Francisco Renaissance "

Review By: Charles P. Ries

Followed by ["Inside The Outside:
An Anthology of Avant-Garde American Poets"](#)

Review by Doug Holder

Visual Art

We take pleasure putting our logo on top of interesting works of art. For our arts section we have chosen to place our logo on top of an exceptional work of art by Jenny Lawson Grassl. A version of the original art may be found here.

The masthead (at the top of this page) is our logo placed on a work by Irene Koronas who is also a writer and our poetry editor. If our masthead was a teaser here is a further sampling of Irene's work.

For some reason many poets are also visual artists and Deborah Priestly is one of them. Her poem 'tree of cats' may be found above in the poetry section. We thought it fitting to show off a sampling of her art with a painting of a cat.

We know we said no 3D art but photograph of this sculpture by architect William Turvelle somehow fit.

That is it for our Spring 2006 edition. The deadline for our Summer edition is June 1. No doubt there are errors and omissions. Please bring these to our attention.

As we said when we started this is a joint production of Wilderness House Literary Retreat and the 'bagel bards'. The 'Bagel Bards' have just published their first (and we hope of many) anthology. You may purchase it here:

00001514