Message From A Young Brazilian Girl

Hello honey! How are you in this weekend? Sorry I have not replied to you soon but I have been in bed with a head of snot. Bad. And my chest has hurting. So all week I stayed in bed with the cats and dog petting. But today, this Saturday, the sun shining and I am feeling very better. Sooo...I thought I would text you to say hello. So HELLO. I wish today that I might have been allowed to visit the beach. But too much cleaning to do now that I am out of the bed and better. So, cleaning.

Apollo (the dog) is being bad boy right now. He keeps trying to put his head on my lap while typing in my notebook. I tell him NO over and over here but he keeps doing the same little trick like the naughty dog he be. But oh well. He is so cute and I have much love for him. Still it make it hard to type to you sometime.

I am sorry you are having hard time in Ohio and cannot find a job. You are very talented with your songs and your art and your letters and I know you will find something very soon. Here in Sao Paulo it is also hard for some to live. It took me very long time to find my place as psychologist in the academic research area at the hospital here but finally I did.

I do wish I could go to some beach today, honey. To Santos. It is a little far drive from where I do live but so nice there with the ocean and breezes and hotels. So relaxed and fun! But no. I need to clean up the cat boxes and the clothes and so much more.

I am glad you liked so much my pictures on Inked Girls.Com. So many lovely comments from you, sweetheart. You are so sweet and so nice! In a few I will post many pictures of my new tattoo which I hope you might like. It is a form of Cheetarah. You know from the cartoon show Thundercats? She is wearing her leotard and lance and running to the battle. It is so cool and I love it so very much. I got it the last week before I came sick. It took four hours in the seat to finish and is on my right arm.. Of course, it itched bad for the first few days or so. And then after, I got sick. But now I am better and so looking forward to posting pics of this lovely on Inked Girls and Instagram. So you might see.

Oh my goodness! That was the dog Apollo. Again, on the keyboard. Saying HELLO to you! I might delete this but so funny you know? I leave it there hoping it cheer you . Help with all your depression and the anxiety. I know how very hard it is living with your sister now. Fighting about bills and always the money! A puppy like my Apollo or cats like my Elvis or Panthro (you see, another of Thundercats!) to pet is very good you know for making one smile.

The weather, like I say, is so hot and nice right now. It is sad that I have to stay inside and cleaning. I have new red V-front bikini that I would like to wear. I see it in my room even as I type this to you. It is making me crazy that I cannot wear it now to Santos and the beach. (Oh, why can't these kitties clean their own boxes? Jk.)

I am sorry to hear that this town where you are living in the Ohio has so much drugs and drinking. And that if you do not drive a car there is no way to go anywhere. No taxi? No Uber? No bus? This sounds very sad and bad to me. Here we have the SP Trans System in Sao Paulo and it is very wonderful you know? Before I could buy a car I would take it every day to my employment and it was good and pay with the Bilhete Unico which is a recharge smart card. So I am sorry that you spend so much time in your sister's apartment watching the TV or on the computer. And have to wait for her to drive you to the store or to the doctor's. And you cannot get out to some park or a nice dinner. This must be very bad ☹

We have drug problem here in Sao Paulo as well in the downtown. It is place named Cracolândia. (Crackland.) Many homeless people smoke drugs there every day or wander looking for cans to sell (what is the word—recycle?) so that they can get money to buy the drugs. It is very very bad there and a place to miss. In my job at hospital we have had to deal with some of these. Some are very bad and paranoid.

Oh thank you! I just stopped in this writing to login to Instagram and I saw you liked and talked about my picture! Me posing with Apollo. That was last year. My 21st birthday. We had a party on that beach I was talking of at Santos? So much fun on that day. Although the next day a little hangover from all of the Heinekens I am drinking. Lol.

You know, speaking of the drinking, maybe it is not so very bad an idea for you to slow down or quit for a little while? You say to me you are drinking now a twelve of the beers every night just to bring yourself to work on your letters? Just to make the Youtube videos of your songs? This is not good and you do not need. Like I say, you are very very wonderful person and deserve good things. Also the drinking makes the living with your sister worse I see and leads to all the fighting. So yes. Drink a tea or something else. I cannot live until I have a nice cha-petro in my morning ☺ And also give my Apollo the morning hugs.

I so love my new tattoo (Cheetara.) I am so glad it no longer is itching. After I am done with the message to you here I will go put some cream on it. And then the cleaning again! I like the one you have of the Tasmanian? Tiger on your arm you show me. Very very cool. I am sad you cannot get more but like you say they are very very expensive and you do need to save the money until you are working. (Another reason you should stop all this drinking, honey.)

It would be very nice like you say if one day you could come to Brazil and visit me. I would like to show you Sao Paulo. It is very pretty in the summer. I could show you the museums like the Museum of Art or the Museu do Ipiranga (where they have lots of cool furniture.) Or we could go swimming at the beach! It is very sad that you have never seen the ocean. It always makes me so very better to be there you know? So less locked in land. It would cheer you up right away, I think.

Oh my goodness! Another sweet post from you on the Instagram. Yes. That is me in my new bikini. I take that picture last night to show when I was starting to feel a little better. I am so glad that you loved it and think I look sexy in it. Kisses.

Well, I should sign off of here honey and get to the cleaning finally. I hope that you will have the good day today and the rest of the weekend. Please do not drink so much and work on your art instead! I am sorry I will probably not be on here tomorrow as I have a date with the boy who do my tattoo! His name is Pietro and he is also student at the University of Sao Palo where he is studying painting. I show him some of your art on my phone when I was in in the chair and he liked it. He said it was like a Paul Klee? I do not know this artist but I will Google him very soon. Anyway we are going for the brunch tomorrow and maybe the botanical garden and get to know each other better. He is very sweet and interesting in his knowledge of art and music. (A lot like you!)

Anyway, I need to sign off now and get to all this cleaning there is to do! Tchau to you honey! Goodbye! Have a great weekend my love!

Your friend,

Camila
